Most products are active, but some stock is stuck

The status mix shows where availability is healthy and where action is needed.

What it means

Active products lead the mix. Backordered items need replenishment, while discontinued items should be reviewed before excess stock remains on shelves.

Fruits & vegetables are the biggest sales driver

Longer bars mean more estimated sales value from the category.

₹18.4M

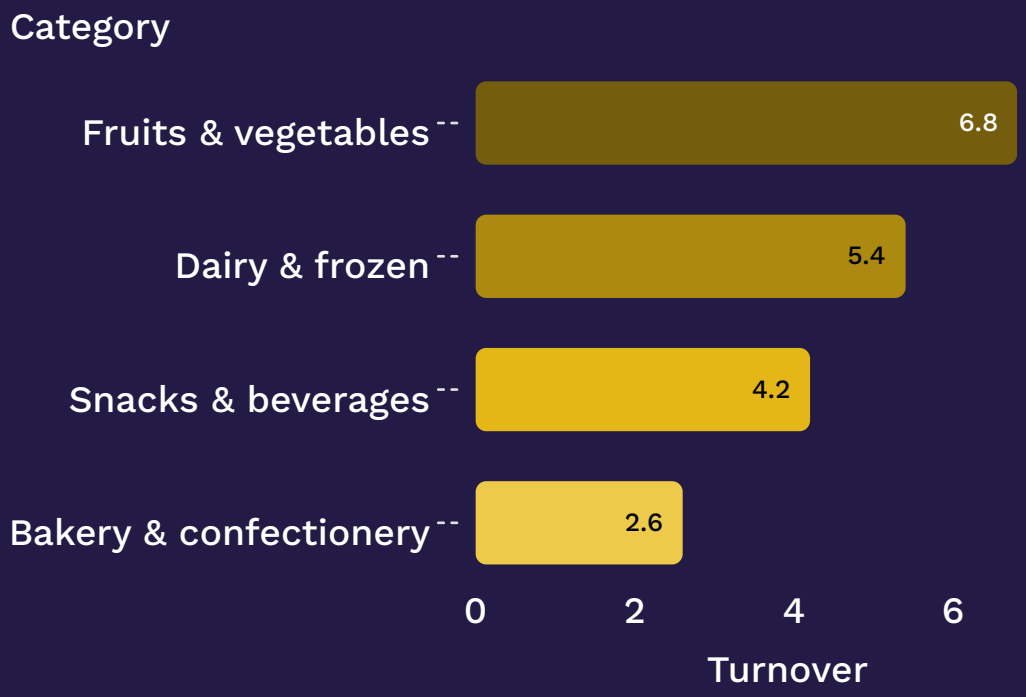

Fruits & vegetables lead the categories shown.

Practical meaning: protect availability in the category that drives the most sales value.

Fast turnover means stock is moving quickly

A higher number means products sell through faster and need closer replenishment.

6.8

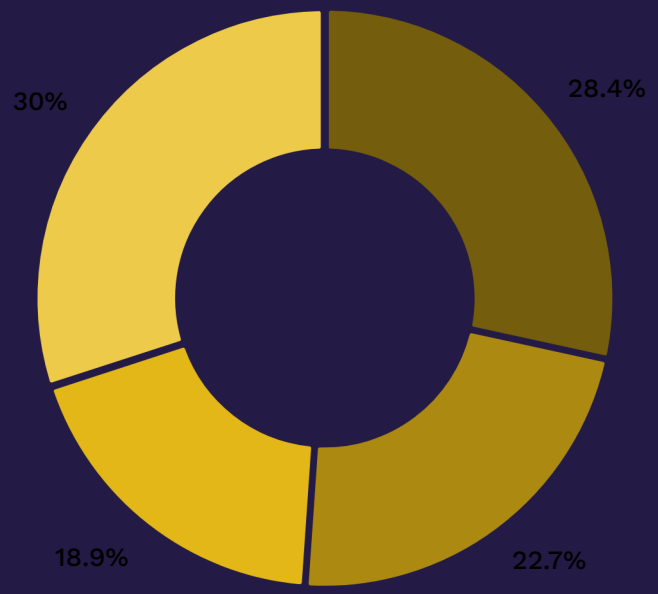

Highest turnover: fruits & vegetables.

Practical meaning: keep replenishment tight where stock moves fastest.

Inventory value is concentrated in the top categories

The donut shows each category's share of the inventory value shown.

- Fruits & vegetables · 28.4%
- Dairy & frozen · 22.7%
- Snacks & beverages · 18.9%
- Other categories · 30%

~70%

Top three categories

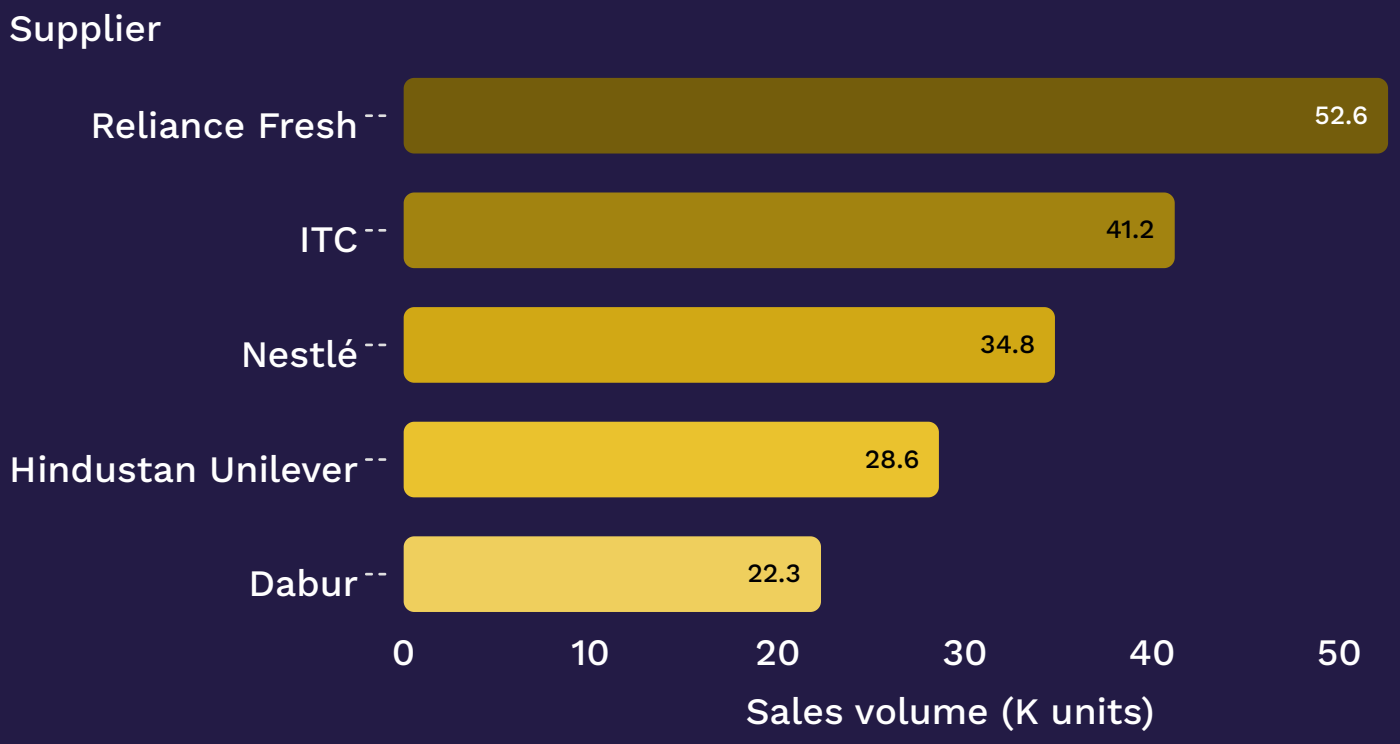

Fruits & vegetables, dairy & frozen, and snacks & beverages together represent about 70% of the value shown.

Practical meaning: changes in these categories will have the biggest effect on cash tied up in inventory.

Supplier performance is uneven

The bars compare supplier sales volume. Bigger suppliers deserve closer availability and delivery checks.

52.6K

Reliance Fresh leads

Its volume is highest among the suppliers shown.

Prioritize the largest suppliers for availability, delivery, and relationship checks.

07 · ACTION PLAN

What the team should do next

Four actions turn the dashboard into a practical operating rhythm.

01

Check low stock first

Review the 87 low-stock products and protect fast-moving categories.

02

Replenish tightly

Keep fruits and vegetables supplied because turnover is highest.

03

Review discontinued items

Check them before buying more stock, so excess inventory does not build.

04

Watch top suppliers

Monitor them because they influence a large share of sales volume.
